1942 YEAR BOOK

foreword

This year brings to all of us the end of our Arlington High School career. Next year some of us will be continuing our education at higher institutions of learning, some of us will be taking our places in business and industry, and some of us will be serving our country in her armed forces. But whatever the future has in store for us, and wherever we may happen to go, it will always be a pleasure for us to look back on the things we learned at Arlington High School, the friendships we made there, and the good times we had both in school and out. For the purpose of giving ourselves a more vivid picture of those good times and friendships, the Year Book Committee of the Class of 1942 of Arlington High School presents this book.

The Graduating Class of the Senior High School
ARLINGTON, MASSACHUSETTS

Dedication

To ROBERT GOTT and WALTER HANNIGAN, members of our class who passed into the Great Beyond before they were to graduate, we, the members of the Class of 1942, dedicate this Year Book.

Robert Gott, who was suddenly taken from us in the beginning of his senior year, was admired by all who knew him. He was a lover of music and had been a member of a church choir in Boston. He was an interested member of the Arlington High School Dramatic and Ski Clubs.

Walter Hannigan, who met with a fatal accident during his junior year, was a popular member of our class. He was interested in many outdoor sports. He played golf and had won a prominent place on the football and hockey teams.

In Appreciation

of Mr. Gammons—in name our principal and in practice our friend and adviser—whose earnest advice, though not always followed as it should have been, will be remembered by all of us in the years to come.

Although the untiring efforts of the teachers of Arlington High School have not always been appreciated by us, we, the Class of 1942, can only by our success, pay back what we owe them.

Through the Years

October 12, 1492, July 4, 1776, November 11, 1918, are enshrined forever as immortal red-letter dates. Add to these another—September 6, 1939, a momentous occasion that saw the sacred portal of Arlington High flung open wide to welcome the class of '42 for the first time.

What a day it was! Full of pride, and bursting with self-esteem, with the awe-inspiring title of "sophomore" conferred on them, they walked, proudly, into the corridors, and promptly became lost. Mobs of self-assured juniors and seniors with a definite destination trampled on both the pride and feet of the new arrivals. Finally, giving up the quest to find Room 99, most of the sophs just drifted along like the tumblin' tumbleweed, going nowhere, and listening to such remarks as, "How many days until the Christmas vacation?" "I never saw her before." "I never saw him before." and "Ummmmmmmmmm!"

Some hours later, a haggard group of students carrying books, emerged from the building, moving like figures in a dream. Crushed. Broken. Felled. The title of "sophomore"—it seemed to infuriate to action any of the latent tendencies of mockery concealed in the black souls of all upperclassmen

By December, when we ceased "waiting for the elevators," the school was amazingly smaller than that first day, our football team had suffered a setback by Melrose, and some of our prominent members set out to make a name for themselves in various fields.

February saw us represented in that year's Dramatic Club presentation, and later on, in Gilbert and Sullivan's Pirates of Penzance, a cast containing several sophomores, distinguished itself.

By virtue of the sun reaching the vernal equinox on March 21 it was spring. Spring, the time of trees and flowers and big red moons hanging low on the dusky horizon. The time of final exams.

Five days of nightmare followed. Days of cramming brains, reading books, and writer's cramp. At last we staggered back to get the results and received our report cards which informed us that we had graduated (as the case may be) into a new title. Whether it was hyphenated or not depended on how our brains functioned in the fatal moments.

Thus we came back from our summer orgies, or work, the following September with the firm resolution to do our homework faithfully, be kind to our teachers, and always follow the arrows on the stairways, but the strain of watching everyone else violate these golden rules, ad nauseum, soon set us to bullying the new set of sophomores; making study periods a thing of terror; and snarling beyond control, the lines of hungry students swarming toward the lunchroom cash registers.

We dropped another decision to Melrose, and that fall also saw the male contingent going around with a hunted look in their eyes and in their bankroll as posters began to spring up announcing the "Harvest Hop" sponsored by the Dramatic Club at the town hall.

This was soon followed up by the annual Dramatic Club play, "What a Life!" which proved to be an unqualified success.

Our track and cross country teams began to show a large roster of juniors on their squads, and the hockey and basketball groups were not far behind with several juniors giving their best effort for the school, on the various teams; baseball was also dependent on some of our best athletes for a championship nine.

Along came the Junior Prom, and looking like the essence of geniality with their hired tuxedos, and beautiful partners, our budding social lions "tripped" the light fantastic again at the Town Hall. It was a landmark in our class history, and will be remembered long by all who attended.

Spring, and finals, (an old, old story by now) were soon dispensed with. Gratefully we prepared for the home stretch, our senior year.

We entered again in the fall of '41 with no illusions, and fell into the customary routine of school life. With such clubs as the Debating Club, Dramatic and Gilbert and Sullivan Clubs, Ski Club, and the revival of the defunct school paper keeping us occupied much of the time, we had few moments to give misguiding directions to befuddled sophomores.

Our football team composed of such senior stars as Flynn, Leary, Tobin, Rowntree, and Beardsley, swept through most of the opposition easily, outclassing every team they played, and finally humbled Melrose 7-0 to provide the climax of a good season.

And the winter passed quickly with all of its troubles, the snow, the sleet, and the homework.

The Dramatic Club presented "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" at the Town Hall, and found they had another success on their hands. Also very warmly received was Pinafore as presented by Mr. Einzigs lusty choristers of Gilbert and Sullivan.

We looked superciliously in at the new Junior Prom and awaited the day of our great Senior dance.

June of 1941 was not only a month of graduations and flowers, but also a month of triumph. Our Dramatic Club, by winning in rapid succession the titles of state and New England champions, with a play entitled The Devil Comes to Alcaraz, was invited by the Thespians, a national dramatic society, to come to the national contest held at the University of Indiana in Bloomington. Permission was given for the troupe to go if they were able to raise the necessary lucre. Everyone thought it couldn't be done—but with aid of townspeople, a parent-committee, posters, tag-day, and whatnot, not to mention the hardworking efforts of the student body, the money was procured and the trip became a reality. Those who left on the journey look back now on an excursion, rich in pleasure and experience; something that they will always remember.

Now we were at the apex of our school years. At the top of the heap. What lay ahead no one knew, but one thing was certain—graduation, the crowning glory, would be the most impressive event of all.

If past events are any criterion, it was the greatest of all our school ceremonies.

We await it with calmness and eagerness, and a determination to do our part in the everyday world.

By ROBERT TAYLOR.

Student Council

Each year the students of Arlington High School elect ten seniors, six juniors, and four sophomores to represent them in the Student Council.

The Student Council this year has worked very hard. It has succeeded in sponsoring successful afternoon dances and has done much for the improvement of our fire drills.

The class of 1942 should be proud of such an enthusiastic and capable organization.

It is our hope that the future members of the Council will uphold the tradition established by past members as well as by the members of our 1942 Student Council.

Debating Club

Now in its fourth season under the able guidance of its faculty adviser, Guy Petralia, the Debating Club has enjoyed a highly successful season.

The varsity debating team opened its season by defeating Brookline, but was beaten by the same team the very next day. The team for this debate was made up of two juniors, Stephen Morrill and Esther Smith, and four seniors, James Raffi, president, Frederick Gage, Thomas Palmer, and William Gorvine.

A heavy schedule has been arranged by Mr. Petralia. Everett, Cambridge High and Latin, and Belmont are some of the schools whose challenges have been accepted. As in the past, the Debating Club's activities will be climaxed by its annual banquet and dance in May.

Dramatic Club

The Dramatic Club has scored again!

The Class of '42 is proud of the work of the Dramatic Club during the past three years.

Last year the play presented in the Town Hall was Clifford Goldsmith's rollicking play What a Life. Leads were played by Faye Williams, Barbara Ambrose and John Jessup.

Later in the season Arlington High School, winner of the Massachusetts Drama Festival and Class "A" winner of the New England Drama Festival, was signally honored by an invitation from the National Thespian Society to present its production of The Devil Comes to Alcares at the National Drama Festival which was held at Bloomington, Indiana, during the first week in June.

Gilbert and Sullivan Club

In this, the Gilbert and Sullivan Club's sixth season, Pinafore has been selected by the members and their faculty adviser, Mr. L. Hassler Einzig, as the year's production. We know that this performance will equal those of our sophomore and junior years when the productions were The Pirates of Penzance and The Gondoliers.

Members of the class of '42 who have taken part in singing leads have been:

Jeanne Kerr	Edward Alfano	Rosalie Lamothe
Anita LeBlanc		Richard Smith

Fine Arts Club

The aim of the Fine Arts Club is to encourage individual abilities and interests of the students in a more specialized and creative way than daily class work permits. The nature of the club allows everyone an opportunity to work out his own techniques in drawing or painting ideas or in developing an appreciation of related arts.

The club is divided into two sections. The students in the creative painting division are interested in drawing or painting chiefly from the illustrator's point of view. Those in the second division are actively interested in all related arts of music, drawing, and literature.

Once a month the club listens to recorded classical music as a related art. Museum trips and visits to current art exhibitions form an important part of the activity of the club sponsored by Mr. Kennedy.

Glee Club

The Girls' Glee Club is an active group of ninety girls directed by Miss Ethelwyn Wardle and accompanied by Eileen Cohen. Noted for its beautiful tone, quality, expression and interpretation, it has sung for Parent-Teachers' and Women's Club meetings, and for the past five years has won the highest rating at almost every All-State and All-New England Music Festival it has entered.

The Orchestra

This year the orchestra has been practicing the musical scores for the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta H. M. S. Pinafore. At most of the assemblies it has played medleys of tunes, fitting for the day. Under the excellent direction of Mr. Einzig, the orchestra of 1941 has been the biggest and the best yet.

The Band

After several years of waiting, the band of 1941 was blessed by the long-awaited hats. Also there were many new members which made the Arlington High School band extremely fine this year. The many twirlers and cheer leaders helped considerably to improve the appearance of the band.

Under the constant drilling of Mr. Mazzocca and Mr. Einzig, the selections were very well played and the formations were "letter-perfect."

Journalism Club

The Journalism Club was revived this year by Mr. Ellis, a new teacher in the school, for the purpose of editing the school paper. After the club was organized, they started work on the first edition of the Chronicle, which came out on December 19. The feature of this issue was a separate cut of the football squad.

The purpose of the paper was to bring the pupils of the school closer together by telling them about activities and clubs that we have in school. After shuffling the staff a little, they prepared the second issue which came out February 2.

The Stamp Club

The famous philatelists-to-be improved their collections more than ever this year. Perhaps they did some of the extra work with an eye out for that half point of extra-credit. Mr. Skinner was a great help to those who were struggling along with small collections. He gave most interesting weekly talks in the form of lectures. The members presented a fine exhibit of their work at the Children's Museum in Boston to top their year's achievement.

Sports

Football

Arlington High's Red and Gray warriors enjoyed a banner year, winning seven of ten hard fought games. The team got under way by taking Leominster, Lowell, Fitchburg and Revere before losing a heart-breaker to a fighting Malden team by the slim margin of seven to six. However, the boys came back, beating Chelsea and Brockton, but then lost to Medford and Salem successively. The boys girded themselves for the traditional Thanksgiving Day game determined to jar the favored Melrose team from its pinnacle of Class "B" leadership. The game swayed back and forth for three scoreless periods before Arl-ington's power carried the ball over from the thirteen-yard line to win the game.

Main bulwarks of the forward wall were Co-Captain Red Tobin, Jim Casali, Bill Cunnane and Bill Regan. Co-Captain Ed Leary and Wally Flynn at end and Ike Bev-ins as pivot man turned in stellar performances. In the backfield Lou Brillante, Herb Ritchie, Joe Aulenback and Ken Rowntree rounded out one of the best teams turned out by Coach Ostergren in recent years.

Boys' Basketball

This year's A. H. S. hoopsters are scheduled to play ten league games as well as several inter-league games. The team resorts to plays more than ever before and is rather small, but fast and shifty. Augmented by several transfers, the team has a great deal of material and excellent prospects for next year.

Under the able leadership of Captain Jim Mulloney, the first squad is composed of John Colliton, Dave Burke, Dick Powers, Swede Swenson, Jim Sullivan, Ed Leary, and Leonard Duggan. Other standouts are Bonham, Lynch, Tucher, Gardella, and Hoie. Mr. Fusco, aided by Mr. Warner handles the coaching department skillfully.

Girls' Basketball

This year's team, under the direction and leadership of Miss Katherine McCarty, girls' athletic coach, had a promising season. Margaret "Pinkie" Tierney, this year's captain, was declared to be one of the best guards ever, and one of the most valuable all-round players. She has been a veteran of three seasons and made this season her best. Virginia Collins, the team's efficient manager, was aided by her assistant, Mary Donahue—both are juniors.

In order to give all the girls an opportunity to make a showing, this year Miss McCarty chose three teams representing each class—sophomore, junior, and senior—and two games were arranged for each team to play against outside competition. On January 7, Arlington played host to the three class teams from Cambridge High and Latin and then on January 16, Arlington played at Reading. Among the seniors were three able veteran guards, Capt. "Pinkie" Tierney, E. Kelley, D. O'Shea—the outstanding three veteran forwards, N. White, C. Giarrizzo, and J. Walker.

Miss McCarty picked her varsity team from the cream of the crop—the three class teams. They started a heavy schedule by playing their old opponents Winchester, on January 23, Belmont on January 30. February 4, the team played against the old foe—the alumnae. On February 13 they tackled Malden, February 19 our rival, Melrose, then Lexington on February 25. The two last games of the season were a wind-up with Somerville on March 13, and Medford on March 17. The team upheld the high standing of successful past seasons if not surpassed them.

Girls' Field Hockey

As soon as classes started in the fall, Miss McCarty, coach of field hockey, sent out the call for hockey candidates. Along with the returning veterans, Captain "Pinkie" Tierney, Faith Maloney, Jerry Walker, Patricia Dadmun, Gloria Fredrikson, Ruth Peabody, Virginia Collins, Mary Donahue, and Irene Nowlin, came many new players.

The results of diligent practice were shown when they won their first game against Winthrop with a score of 3-0. They went on to further victory, their only setback being handed them by Winchester.

A highlight of the season was an impromptu game with the boys' cross country team. The girls polished the fellows to the tune of 1-0, despite ice hockey tactics displayed by the boys.

All in all, they had a successful season and Captain-elect Ginny Collins has a swell squad to work with next year.

Hockey Team

Arlington High's hockey sextet suffered a great loss by the graduation of Captain Arthur Blanchard, All-Scholastic, and the team's most dependable and consistent player, as well as four or five other "standouts." Coach Downs, however, always turns out a fine team, and this year was no exception. Although the team had been hampered by the mild weather of November and December which resulted in few outdoor practice sessions, it managed to hold Newton to a scoreless tie in the season's opener. The team has no individual stars but works smoothly as a unit, with teamwork the big factor. Captain "Bronnie" Beardsley leads the attack. Bill Regan and Dave Middleton are the two stonewalls at defense and the impregnable "Ike" Bevins is at goal. The team's roster includes Jack Cunha, Coille, "Herb" Ritchie, Connelly, Burns, "Hump" Nolan, a transfer from Rhode Island, and the Malone boys, Jim and Bob, brothers of George Malone, ex-Arlington High and B. C. hockey great.

With such a well-rounded team, a successful season for the "Spy Ponders" is anticipated by all.

CROSS COUNTRY

Cross Country Team

The "hill and dalers," under their veteran coach, "Doc" McCarty, were undefeated in a season which saw wins over Winchester, Lawrence Academy, Quincy, and Tufts Freshmen. Arlington High's harriers climaxed this accomplishment by copping second place at the annual school-boy cross country run, sponsored by Boston University. In a field of twenty-one schools this is quite a feat. Harold Pompey, only a sophomore, finished sixth in this race, while the Geary brothers, Warren and Dave, finished tenth and eleventh respectively. These three boys received medals for their efforts.

Coach McCarty will have veterans Captain Warren Geary, Harold Pompey, Louis Reycroft, and Bill Kelly returning next year. "Doc" has the makings here of another great team.

Indoor Track

Competition was keen this year among the "tracksters." Dual meets were had with Somerville, Malden, and Lawrence, and Arlington was an entrant in the Northeastern Interscholastics, the Andover Interscholastics, and the State meet as well as the Bowdoin Interscholastics in March which meant the coveted trip to Maine for the boys. Three members of last year's relay team returned, Donovan, Waldron, and Belinowiz, who is greased lightning on boards. Wally Flynn, the All-Scholastic footballer, was amazingly fast for a fellow of his herculean stature. Jimmy Raffi, known better for his scholastic achievements, was another senior who made a name for himself through his athletic ability.

With such a "standout" aggregation of "flyers," it was a small wonder that Arlington High's colors went far in the ladder of the school-boy track world!

The Girls' Athletic Association

The G. A. A. is typical of A. H. S. The purpose of the club is to promote an interest in sports. This has certainly been accomplished. In October, there was a hike and treasure hunt. Some of us got lost on the way but others were able to follow the clues that Miss Williams had given. The sophomores were initiated at the Hallowe'en party, but they thought it was worth it. This was a lively affair, especially with games the committee had arranged with Miss McCarty and Miss Williams. The G. A. A. gave the rally the day before the Melrose game. Many other activities are being planned. The club is interested in having splash parties, skating parties, dances, ping-pong tournaments, and beach parties. No one who went to Crane's Beach, Ipswich, in June, 1941, will ever forget it. All in all, it's been a very successful year for the G. A. A. Faith Maloney made a very good president, and everybody had lots of fun.

The Ski Club

The Ski Club started the season by attending pictures at Melrose High School. The pictures were given to help raise funds for the annual Mt. Hood Carnival. As usual, the snow seemed to take its own slow time in coming, so everyone was late getting out on the hills. When the snow finally did come most of the members could be found spending the afternoon at the Arlmont Country Club, having the time of their lives. With the able Mr. Carl T. Witherell as faculty adviser, the club progressed very rapidly this year. As always the Mt. Hood Carnival was the highlight of the year, but in addition, this year, there were meets with several of the neighboring schools.

The Boys' Tennis Team

A. H. S. has reason to be proud of its fine boys' tennis team. Mr. Wallace is the coach. This spring, the team will include Captain "Bronnie" Beardsley, Augustine Bova, Norman Shaw, Russell Letson, Gilbert Dillon, Carl Melin, Fritz Haubner, John Jessup, James Springston, and last but not least, Richard Tenney. The team is a member of the Suburban Tennis League and the boys are out to get the cup that was lost to Waltham last year by the proverbial "hair." Tennis is a great sport and we have a greater team. We are confident of its success.

The Girls' Tennis Team

This year very good results are expected when we play the following teams: Melrose, Malden, Belmont, Watertown, Winchester, Concord and Lexington. Faith Maloney, Patricia Dadmun, Jean Clancy, Gloria Fredrikson and others will be on the team. The sophomores and juniors had an opportunity to practice without the seniors during the long fall season. Peggy Page, who was a newcomer on the squad, was a great surprise to us because of her extraordinary ability.

There was a great scramble for courts down at Spy Pond, because the boys always seemed to wish to use them the same day. Everyone on the team knows Mr. Higgins who gave the team much helpful advice. The girls' tennis team was very fortunate in having Miss Williams for a coach.

Golf

Last year's golf team lived up to expectations by winning the State championship and running a close second in national competition. Due to losses through graduation, this year's team is lacking chiefly in experience, but Coach Robinson anticipates that the team will be fully as successful as its predecessor if the boys get out there and practice. Doug Wilde and Stan Pittman are the only returning veterans, notable losses being Harvey, Wilcox, the Ryerholm brothers, Bullock, Burke, and Tobin. Dave Burke and Tom Lynch, runner-up for the caddy championship, are among the more outstanding newcomers.

Riding Club

This new club, in existence last year but not fully organized until this fall, has been greeted with overwhelming enthusiasm by all students. Both beginners and experienced riders have found entertainment and further guidance in becoming good riders.

The membership stands at 65 and the club rides twice weekly, through the entire school year, an average of ten members riding each time. The club officers consist of two managers, Katheryne Hauser and John Gutteridge, who take care of ordering horses, keeping attendance and other business details. Miss Marjorie Williams and Mr. Carl Witherell, both experienced and expert riders, are the faculty advisers and ride weekly with each group.

The club rides at the Fulton Street Stables in Medford under the further guidance of their instructors. Experienced riders may take to the paths with stable guides after they have displayed their ability, while beginners receive more special attention at the stables.

Although it is sometimes a strain on the allowance, it is still a popular and well-received activity. Special rides such as breakfast and moonlight rides are always popular with members. And with Mr. Witherell, a great sport and ace-rider along, there is added fun and amusement for all. An album is kept on file by Miss Williams with snapshots of each rider, and the different groups on special rides. It will be kept from year to year as long as the club continues and is on display in the gym office. If this club receives the support and enthusiasm that it has this year, it will continue along with the other school activities.

BASEBALL

Girls' Baseball Team

As the Year Book went to press in February no definite information concerning the girls' baseball team could be had. However, the able guidance of Coach Miss McCarty and the intense enthusiasm of the girls no doubt will combine to make a winning team of which Arlington High can be proud. In the spring, the team will begin practice at Spy Pond Field, and Sallie Bigelow, manager of the team, will have charge of arranging the schedule.

Forgotten Men

Pity not the forgotten Red Man,
His life is one of joy.
Throughout the year nobody scans
The forgotten lunch room boy.

Who is the man who wins the fight
And the heart of some fair maid?
Who is the man who is always right?
—Not Jessup and Gorvine and Slade.

There are many heroes known to fame
By some immortal plan,
But will you ever find the name
Of Brine and Marsh and Monahan?

There are others more handsome (of course) by far,
Who get the accolade.
But why does their prowess always bar
Jessup and Gorvine and Slade?

THE HANCOCK PRESS

has both the equipment and the personnel to handle the entire production of your yearbook—as it handled this one—assuming the responsibility for design, layout, engraving, printing and binding. Such centralization of responsibility with us relieves you of countless details and helps materially to reduce costs and improve quality.
